Economist Conferences is part of the Economist Group, publisher of The Economist, and is the leading provider of forums for senior executives seeking insights into strategic issues.

As the Indian economy continues to witness a robust growth, despite the difficulties thrown up by the global recession, there is tremendous interest in such a high-level forum, where business and government leaders can address the challenges and opportunities presented by the expected recovery in 2010.

The Roundtable comprises of presentations by ministers and senior policymakers, followed by panel discussions and comments / questions from the audience. The sessions aim to promote open and frank discussion, in an atmosphere of constructive engagement with the government.

Chaired by experts from The Economist Group, the conference will be limited to 150 very senior attendees from across the industries.

The Business Roundtable with the Government of India would form an important part of the highly successful global Government Roundtable series. In the past few years they have had the honour of organising Roundtables in Colombia, Greece, Portugal, Cambodia, Philippines, Australia, Mexico, and the European Union.
